New Beginnings ~ Before You Step

Joshua 3:1-9

Any journey, especially when it encompasses a new beginning, will be exciting. That excitement can lead us to start the journey without the proper focus. At the least, this can lead to embarrassment; at the worst it can lead to a dangerous condition.

While we have already looked at preparing before we begin, we now need to pay attention to our focus for the new beginning. Are we ready? Do we have the right frame of mind to make a new beginning?

Consecrate

Are you prepared?

Before you take the first step:

Consecrate—_____

Will you _____?

Take Up

Who's really leading?

Who gets the glory:

Take up—_____

Will we _____?

Listen

Listen before you step...

Don't step wrong:

Listen—_____

Will we _____?

The first duty of love is to listen.

PAUL TILLICH

Conclusion

Take a deep breath...

Make room for God to lead:

We have to follow someone—because we haven't been there before.

Take comfort—_____

Take courage—_____

This final stage of preparation is going to be crucial as we move forward. Our society has shifted a little bit, and it is up to the church, our local family of believers, to prepare to minister in this new society. No one was really prepared for what this pandemic has brought to our world. The steps we have already taken have been new—even strange—and have created a new set of questions.

Here's the point of all this: we may not have all the answers but we do know the God, the one true Living God, who does have the answers. Let's take the time to prepare ourselves to be used by Him, to be lead by Him, and to listen to Him.
