New Beginnings ~ Remember as You Step
Joshua 4:1-24

Memorials are erected so that we might never forget important places, events, and people. They are a constant reminder to us, because some things should not be forgotten. The history that a monument communicates is vital in many ways.

As Israel crosses over the Jordan River to finally begin the process of claiming the Promised Land, Joshua has the people erect two monuments—two memorials. These two stone memorials are only about eight miles apart, yet they symbolize two different things that God intends for His people to remember as they step into this new beginning.

...Remember, Jesus did not come to make us safe, but rather to make us disciples, citizens of God's new age, a kingdom of surprise.
